Bexar County Medical Examiner's Office Continues Identification Process And Coordinates With Consulates

The Bexar County Medical Examiner's Office (BCMEO) continues their work of identifying the victims who perished in the truck-trailer found on Quintana Road in San Antonio, TX.

As previously explained, the process of identification and verification is more time consuming because the deceased are from foreign countries. The established working relationships with the consulates of the potentially affected countries have proven to be effective, and information is exchanged on an ongoing basis.

As of last night, six of the victims have been conclusively identified. We will publish additional information based on the conclusively identified cases in due course. As we are not aware if the decedent's next of kin has been notified yet, we refrain from releasing more detailed data out of respect for the grieving.

In addition to the conclusive identifications, 42 potential identifications have been made. The BCMEO is waiting for confirmation of these cases from the respective consulates.

Five of the victims remain unidentified at this point. The overall number of deceased stands at 53.
